TRIUMPH AND DISASTER

The final session of the match between BBO and Lavazza was a source of both pleasure and pain - depending on where you were sitting.

South led a club and declarer took North's queen with the ace, crossed to dummy with a heart, ruffed a diamond, went back to dummy with a heart and ruffed another diamond. She went to dummy for a third time with a spade, drew the outstanding trump and claimed, +1430.

West intended his 4♦ to be a cue bid agreeing hearts, but revealed that this was un-discussed. It appeared to the commentators that there was some danger of 7♥ being reached, a contract that could not be made on this layout, but when East eventually selected 6NT it became clear that the message that 4♦ had intended to convey had not been received.

Declarer won the lead of the jack of spades with dummy's king, played a heart to the king and a club to the jack and king. He won the return and played a second club, settling for one off - no doubt hoping that there might have been an accident in the other room.

It cost BBO 17 IMPs.

South led the three of spades and declarer won with the ace, played a diamond to the ace, and played a heart to the king. South won with the ace and returned the nine of hearts. Declarer can still get home from here, but short of time she allowed North to get in with the king of clubs and he returned a heart for South to ruff.

One winning line is to run the eight of clubs at trick two. Say North wins with the king and returns a spade. Declarer ruffs in dummy, draws trumps, runs the jack of clubs, eventually pitching a spade on the fourth club and gives up a heart.

A STAR IS BORN

Mark Horton

42nd Street is an American musical and its 2001 Broadway revival won the Tony for Best Revival. Based on the novel by Bradford Ropes and the subsequent 1933 Hollywood film adaptation, the show focuses on the efforts of famed dictatorial Great White Way Director Julian Marsh to mount a successful stage production of a musical extravaganza at the height of the Great Depression.

It contains the lines 'keep your feet on the ground and your head on those shoulders of yours and go out, and Sawyer, you're going out a youngster but you've got to come back a star!'

In the match between Yeh and Lavazza, it fell to the least well know member of the team to make a brilliant play.

In the Closed Room Giorgio Duboin and Sylvie Willard had bid and made 4♥ - South had opened 1NT and bid 4♥ over North's 4♣. After a club lead to the ace and a diamond switch declarer had gone up with the ace, pitched a diamond on the king of clubs and played on cross ruff lines.

With what looked like a robust holding in the unbid suit South did not bother investigate the possibility of a 5-3 heart fit, settling for the nine-trick game.

If West leads a club East can win and return the suit. Then all West needs to do is go up with the ace of spades and play a third club, establishing five winners for the defence.

However, West went with the four of spades and declarer won with dummy's king and ran the ten of diamonds, repeating the finesse when it held. West won and switched to the queen of hearts. Declarer won in hand with the king and cashed her diamonds, throwing two spades and a club from dummy, while the defenders parted with clubs.

Seeing no danger, declarer ran the nine of hearts to East's queen to leave this position:

The rest of team Lavazza were gathered in the beautiful auditorium of the Lavazza Hall della Innovation, following the play. They realised that East now had the opportunity to make a special play, but they could only hold their collective breaths as she searched for a solution.

Eventually she played a card. It was the ace of clubs, which executed the rare feat of the defenders squeezing declarer.

If declarer threw a heart from dummy East would be able to exit in that suit and West would take the last two tricks, so declarer threw a spade, hoping that East had started with only one spade. Now the jack of spade gave West three tricks in the suit and the contract was two down.

When the ace of clubs appeared on the screen there was an explosion of joy from the rest of the Lavazza squad - Emanuela had come back a star!

East led the two of hearts and East put in the nine allowing declarer to win with the jack. That turned out be a very astute move, as declarer now played the jack of clubs and when East followed impassively with the seven he went up with the king - and down went the contract.

Don't look away now, as we come to what Zia Mahmood described as the best hand of the tournament so far:

Unwilling to open a red suit East started with the ten of spades and declarer won with the jack, cashed the ace of clubs and played a club to the jack and king, East pitching the six of hearts. West returned the seven of spades and declarer won with the ace, crossed to dummy with a spade (West pitching the two of hearts) and cashed the queen of clubs pitching a diamond as West followed with the ten and East threw the nine of spades.

Now declarer did something very subtle - he played a heart to the ten, creating the impression that he had started with the ♥AJ10. East won with the queen and played the king of diamonds, collecting the four from partner.

In the cold light of day you could argue that West's ten of clubs must have shown a preference for hearts over diamonds, but that is easy to overlook and declarer's deception was rewarded when East continued with the six of diamonds. That got declarer up to nine tricks and when East pitched a diamond on the ace of spades declarer had an overtrick.

When a club to the jack held declarer ruffed a third spade and played the ace of clubs and a club. North won and switched to the king of hearts so the contract was three down - still a swing to CCBA who had dominated the first half of the match.

You will observe that if you do play a slam on the NS cards you should be in spades as opposed to diamonds. Do you see why?

It's because a spade lead (easier from the West hand) threatening a ruff is too difficult to cope with.
